THE STONE SCHOOL.

ARRANGEMENTS were made recently at the Stone School, Cornwall-on-Hudson, New York, by a group of men interested in educational work for enlisting the efforts of all schools and colleges throughout the coun conois and colleges throughout the country in contributing to the European relief fund through the medium of the Red Cross association.

Leading men and women have been asked to serve on an indorsing committee and five college presidents, with the principals of some of the best known preparators schools will not some on divisors committee. tory schools, will act as an advisory com-mittee.

concerted effort for an impartial contribution to all the warring nations, it is hoped that the bitter partisan spirit will be minimized in the schools, thereby rendering unnecessary any such ruling as some school boards are reported to have taken, barring the study of history and geography during this period of war. By bringing to the school population a keen realization of the horrors and suffering of war an attempt will also be made to teach a timely lesson on the virtue and value of peace.

Among the plans that will be urged upon the schools and colleges is one suggesting that, while European conditions demand it, one day be set apart each month when all students shall give to the fund something resulting from a personal securifice.

MONTCLAIR ACADEMY.

Montclair Academy, Montclair, N. J., as-Montclair Academy, Montclair, N. J., assembled for its twenty-eighth year, with a targe enrolment, including a much larger number of boys from nearby places than formerly. Not a few of last year's graduates and some of the alumni arrived to assist in the welcoming of old friends and new boys. Headmaster John G. MacVicar opened school with fitting words and short periods were held. In the evening Mr. and Mrs. MacVicar held a recertion at Bradley House, where they a reception at Bradley House, where they received the faculty, students and alumni friends. After this affair the boys opened the Band swimming pool, which has sustained its popularity during this hot period. It was almost "tattoo" when the Concerning the school enrolment it is Oncerning the school enrolment it is interesting to estimate the geographical radius of the school's influence. This radius is shown in the following geographical summary: Local, 117; New Jersey (general), 21; New York, 12; Pennsylvania, 3; Massachusetts, 2; Michigan, 8; Vermont, 2; Rhode Island, Connecticut, Ohio, Georgia, Switzerland and Mexico, one each.

Elections for class officers show these results: Seniors, president, Baldwin Guild of Newark: vice-president, Joseph Gould, Denver, Col.; secretary-treasurer, Oliver Denver, Col.; secretary-treasurer, oliver Grymes, Easton, Md; executive com-mittee, C. Pattison of Buffalo and Winner Parker of Jersey City. Those of the junior class are: President, Ewen Cam-eron, Orange; vice-president, Roger Har-vey, Newark; secretary-treasurer, G. B. Duren 2d, Newark.

WORCESTER ACADEMY.

At Worcester Academy, Worcester, Mass., the board of monitors was recently elected by joint action of the faculty and the senior class. These seven boys represent Worcester's highest attainment and highest promise for the year, and when the developes the leadership. ment and highest promise for the year, and upon them devolves the leadership of the school. The real monitor is Henry Spahr Small of York, Pa. The other members of the new board are Guy Edward Cogswell of Henniker, N. H., Walter Livingston Davol of Providence, R. I., Elston Almond Day of Northbridge, Mass.; Benjamin Albott Dickson of Atlanta, Ga.; Nessan Alexander MacColl of Providence. Norman Alexander MacColl of Providence, R. I., and Roy Francis McGillicuddy of Philadelphia, Pa.

The work of the year in public speak-

The work of the year in public speak-ing has begun with much enthusiasm on the part of the students. This work, under Mr. Garrison, is different in some respects from that done in any other secondary school in the country. Be-sides the declamation and the debating, there are exercises in after dinner speak-ing and other forms of public address. there are exercises in after dinner speaking and other forms of public address. The after dinner speaking is given its proper setting by being conducted in Adams Hall, the school's dining room, after dinner on Fridays. The Academy Athletic Association is looking forward to a large attendance when it meets Yale freshmen. Dartmouth freshmen, Exeter and Williston on Gaskill Field.

R. L. Bent of Gardner, Mass., defeated
M. Forrest of Chicago, in the finals of the fall tennis tournament by the scores of 6-3, 6-3, 10-8. The tournament brought out some excellent material for next spring's tennis team and proved interesting up to the very end.

VERMONT ACADEMY.

Vermont Academy, Saxtons River, Vt. opens its new school year with a large errolment of new students, together with extensive improvements that have been made during the past summer, assuring the academy of a most prosperous year. A large proportion of the new students are members of the senior class, having preferred to receive their diplomas from the academy rather than from their local high schools. high schools.

Two changes have been made in the faculty this year. Mr. Lawrence, Amherst College, has been placed in charge of the English department, and Alfred Gale, Worcester Technology, is in charge of the mathematical branches. Both in-structors are graduates of the academy. Among other improvements on the school grounds, a new reservoir with an increased water storage, the renovation and painting of one of the dormitories and the erection of a bungalow for athletic purposes are the most important.
